Reimagining Corporate Social Responsibility:
Organizational Purpose and Human-AI Synergy

September 3-6, 2025 | Covilhã, Portugal

Arriving in Portugal

Delegates can arrive either at Francisco Sá Carneiro Airport of Porto (OPO) or Humberto Delgado International Airport of Lisbon (LIS).

To check if you need a visa and required documents, see the Portuguese Ministry of Foreign Affairs website

While both cities offer bus connections to Covilhã, Lisbon provides the additional option of train services, making it a more flexible choice for travel planning.

It is advisable to book tickets in advance, especially during busy periods.

Weather in Covilhã

Covilhã experiences average temperatures ranging from 15°C to 27°C in late summer. Rain is uncommon during this period, though brief showers can occasionally occur, and the evenings tend to be cooler with light winds.

Delegates are advised to bring a light jacket or sweater for the cooler evenings, wear light clothing during the warmer daytime, and use comfortable walking shoes to navigate the city's hilly terrain.

What to do in Covilhã

Located on the slopes of the Serra da Estrela, Covilhã is a city shaped by its historical connection to the textile industry. It is also home to the University of Beira Interior, with campuses spread throughout the city. As the gateway to the highest point in mainland Portugal, Covilhã offers a balance between industrial heritage, contemporary urban art, and stunning natural landscapes.

Don't miss the opportunity to stroll through Covilhã's historic center, where narrow streets reveal layers of the city's past alongside vibrant expressions of contemporary art. Every year, the WOOL Urban Art Festival brings new life to the city's walls, turning them into an open-air gallery. Be sure to visit the iconic Church of Santa Maria Maior, known for its distinctive blue-and-white tile façade. For breathtaking views, head to the Portas do Sol viewpoint or enjoy a peaceful moment in the Public Garden, both offering sweeping panoramas over the valley and surrounding mountains.

Visit the website Visit Covilhã to get full information about tourism attractions, routes, cultural activities and more!
